Ley lines are a matrix of natural energy (that run in straight lines across the globe. The source of the energy is unknown and apparently inexhaustible.

At places where several ley lines cross, the energy is at its greatest. These intersections are called ley line nexus points. Ley line energy is at an all time high and offers a seemingly endless source of mystic power. Practitioners of magic, psychics, supernatural creatures, and demons can stand on or near a ley line and freely feed on its energy.

Every living being has a small reserve of this natural energy, and when it dies tremendous amounts of the energy is released into the ley lines.
